Active Parenting videos, in both English and Spanish, are now available to parents for free in an online video library. Active Parenting is a nationally recognized series of parenting classes based on psychology principles.

Parents can now view a parenting workshop from their home computer at a time that is convenient for them, 24 hours a day, seven-days a week.

The videos cover a variety of topics focused on the parenting of babies, young children and teens and include resources for stepfamilies. Parents will also find information on how to help children succeed in school. To access the videos, Broward parents should go to (www.activeparentingolc.com) and enter the access code: 4nj67adst4.

Parents interested in learning more comprehensive Active Parenting techniques to help their child succeed, should register for an Active Parenting workshop in their community by going to the District's website (www.browardschools.com), clicking on "departments" and selecting the Exceptional Student Education department, or by contacting Jane Derringer, FDLRS Parent Services, (jane.derringer@browardschools.com), 754-321-2211.
